Barrington Junior Women's Club Sparkles!

Barrington Junior Women's Club (BJWC) presented its fall signature event, "Cue the Confetti ... She Leaves a Little Sparkle", to kick-off the holiday season. A sell-out guest list of 425 people enjoyed sipping cocktails while shopping local vendors and perusing the unique and luxurious silent auction items. Guests then headed into the main ballroom at The Stonegate Conference and Banquet Centre for the main event featuring the Impact Raffle generously donated by MJ Miller & Company, live auction items, and the highly anticipated fashion show.

MJ Miller & Company donated the Impact Raffle item and also donated a stunning set of diamond earrings for the Doorway Raffle that added sparkle to this festive event. The BJWC's "Favorite Things" Live Auction Item was also a highlight of the event with the Louis Vuitton bag donated by Lisa Stamos of Quintessential Barrington. The event concluded with the fashion show featuring stylish attire from local boutiques along with Neiman Marcus. The runway shined even a little brighter when some of BJWC's families made special appearances as models.

SO MANY GOOD CAUSES

This event helps BJWC award grants and scholarships to Barrington High School graduates, Barrington Giving Day, The Community Meal and much more. This year, BJWC's fundraising focus is supporting a portable Safety Town program so this educational and important curriculum can be offered to students at Sunny Hill Elementary School in Barrington 220. With this successful event, BJWC was able to raise $83,000.

The event could not happen without the many talented BJWC members, especially Co-Chair Jessica Young and Priscilla Morrison, along with continued sponsorships from local businesses, especially the event's presenting sponsor, BMO Wealth Management. "We have been a supporter of Barrington Junior Women's Club for many years. The fashion show is always a well put together event that we enjoy. Most important, we feel that BJWC's goals and focus on the community aligns with ours at BMO Harris, so it continues to be a wonderful partnership," BMO Private Bank Director Ellaine Sambo-Reyther said.
