When I think about the importance of shopping local, I keep coming back to one thing. Shopping local keeps our town alive! Plain and simple, without local businesses, there would be no town. We all remember our towns growing up, whether it was Barrington, Arlington Heights or a neighborhood in Chicago, the shops, the smells, the store owners stay with us. When I opened Norton’s U.S.A. one of my goals was to be a store that kids could come to by themselves. We all remember the first store our parents let us go to alone and that was a wonderful feeling. A great feeling of independence! A memory that stays with you your whole life. That’s what shopping local is, building memories past and future.

A busy town is a healthy town. Just think how many people the new Egg Harbor has employed! And that money is going to stay right in Barrington! A stronger local tax base means a stronger community, better schools, better roads, better fire and police. Every dollar you spend locally has a much greater impact on Barrington, 3 to 1 actually over shopping at a big box store.

Local businesses have a much smaller and greener footprint as well, which in turn makes you have a smaller footprint which is a really good thing! Local businesses have goods and services that are not often available or offered other places. Many local merchants strive to carry products that are unique, fresher and/or are made locally. On the other hand, those same merchants are able to create or special order a product especially for you. Which brings me to customer service. No one can give you the same service as your local bank, market, florist or gift shop like a locally owned business. It’s what sets us apart. Sometimes people come in to Norton’s just to tell us a joke or to help them send a care package off to a son or daughter away at school for the first time. Receiving something from “home” is always a good thing. The personal service that a local store offers can never be matched at the big box stores at malls.

Local businesses also build strong ties to the community by contributing to local charities, supporting sports teams, school activities, town festivals, service clubs and so much more. Barrington High School’s beautiful stadium is a perfect example and just look how the community came together to help out the Catlow Theater and how fun is it to watch the local business advertise on the big screen. Everyone wins when everyone participates!

When a town is healthy, home values rise, other businesses move in and the town grows and prospers. People come from all over to experience the uniqueness of your town. It becomes a destination and everyone thrives and it happens because of you! That hard earned dollar that you decided to spend in Barrington, makes all the growth possible. It’s true, you become the town, you become proud of your town, and your town is proud of you.

Deborah Leydig opened Norton’s U.S.A. in 2007 to sell only American-made products. A long-time Barrington Hills resident, Leydig has worked as a fashion designer, graphic designer, and spent many years on the stage at Steppenwolf Theatre as an actor. Norton’s U.S.A. is located in downtown Barrington at 400 Lageschulte Street. Call 847-382-8872 or visit www.nortonsUSA.com.

A Gift to Remember: The 2015 Christmas Art Walk

As the Village of Barrington rounds out its 150th year, the Jonahre Foundation will present a holiday gift to the community. A Gift to Remember: Christmas Art Walk 2015 will feature artists commissioned from places as far as Africa and Korea, joining together with local artists to create a truly international reflection of the Christmas story. Our Village will play host to a story that unfolded in a faraway village more than two thousand years ago.

The Christmas Art Walk, which celebrated its inaugural event in 2013, returns again this December—this time with 12 new works of art, made by 12 professional artists commissioned especially for the walk. Each artist depicts an event from the story of the first Christmas, as inspired by passages from the Bible. From vibrantly painted canvases to deftly sculpted ceramics, nearly every medium is represented.

Christine Gunn-Danforth, PhD., and sculptor Ian Christopher at Barrington’s White House.

Christine Gunn-Danforth, president of the Jonahre Foundation, conceived of the event as a new way to bring the story of Christmas into our stores—and hearts—at the busiest time of year. “The Art Walk is for everyone, wherever you may be on your faith journey. Our hope is that people are able to connect with the true meaning of Christmas through their experiences with these wonderful works of art,” she says.

Art Walk attendees are invited to begin the walk at the Barrington Flower Shop, where a guided tour is available each day at noon. Artists will be present in the stores for a meet-and-greet all day on Saturday, Dec. 12. Attendees are welcome each day, anytime stores are open, and maps will be on hand at each station to guide visitors. On weekends, Egg Harbor will host a live Crèche featuring interactive period actors (and outdoor heaters). Area churches will also carol along the route on various days.

Ian Christopher, whose bronze relief depicts the three Wise Men following the star (above) grew up modeling figures from dense clay he found in a local riverbed in Iowa. "I was fascinated..."
You and your family are invited to explore, discover and walk through twelve stores in the Village of Barrington for the Christmas Art Walk. Twelve Artists have created original pieces depicting the Biblical Story of Christmas. Each piece tells the story through the actions of the characters at that point of the story inspiring viewers to remember the true Gift of Christmas.

with history, but often couldn't find toys that represented the groups I was interested in,” Christopher says. “I spent many hours crafting Zulu warriors from the river clay.” His bronze relief will be on display at the Bread Basket.

Barrington’s shops and churches look forward to welcoming all to this event. For a map and more information on daily events, visit www.christmasartwalk.com. Here is a list of the locations, the artists, and each artist’s Biblical story depiction for the 2015 Christmas Art Walk:
